Improved Coke Making Processes. A correspondent of the Manufacturers' Record writing from Philadelphia on "Improved Coke Making Processes," in regard coal washing and the probability of the gian oven taking the place of the beehive oven says: "We have the strongest assurance that in quite a number of localities South and West the most improved process of coal washing will soon be introduced. The iron-masters of Alabama, Tennessee and sther states will then wonder how such an improvement could have been retarded so long. Important as the effect would be for the reasons named, a successful coal washing will gain even more significance if we take into consideration that through it a large number of entirely new coal regions are opened to
